

WILHELM MAIER'S CASE.

It is Doubtful if it will go to a Higher Court.

POVERTY PREVENTS ANY APPEAL.

A Phase of the Law and the Practice in the Courts which might work a Cruel Hardship—Maier's Parents Appealed to for Money to Push the Case for their Son.

When William Maier, the wife murderer, was arraigned before Judge Paul to be sentenced to death, Hon. G. W. Atkinson, of his counsel, took a stay of execution in order that an appeal might be taken to the supreme court of appeals. It is extremely doubtful, however, if there will be any further proceedings in the courts. All the present indications are that when the sun rises on August 5 Mr. Maier will see it for the last time. It is understood that both Mr. Atkinson and Mr. Conif, his attorneys, hold the opinion as firmly as ever, that the verdict ought to be reversed, and that there are such grounds for its reversal that the higher court would take that course if the case came before it.

The sole trouble in Maier's case is the lack of funds. It costs like everything to appeal a case. There is a statute which compels clerks and other court officers to serve an indigent prisoner free of charge, and Maier had the able and faithful service of two good attorneys without cost, by assignment of the court. But in order to take the case higher the record must be prepared, and it is stated that in Maier's case this alone would involve an expenditure of about $165. Of course Maier cannot furnish that sum. It therefore looks as if his case was ended.

It is understood that his counsel have written to his parents in Germany, informing them that unless money can be promptly furnished their son must hang. Nothing is yet known of their ability or inclination to put up a sufficient sum to carry his case through, but it is regarded as doubtful if they can afford him the aid needed.

In the famous case of Taylor Strauder, the colored man who murdered his wife, the successive appeals, till the prisoner was finally freed by the United States Supreme Court, were made at the personal expense of his lawyers, Davenport & Dovenor, who no doubt got the worth of it in fame, but in Maier's case there is not the same incentive. In Strauder's case a principle of constitutional law was involved, and after his partner's death Captain Dovenor took pride in carrying the case to a successful issue and "knocking out" the courts below.

In Maier's case, he will not have any sympathy, and it is the general judgment, and probably the truth, that he only got his just deserts when the death penalty was pronounced upon him. There might arise a case, however, with the same legal features, where a poor man would be deprived of his life unjustly simply because poverty prevented his pushing an appeal. There are cases on record where the public sympathy was with the convicted party, in which money has been subscribed to carry forward his appeal, but Maier cannot look for any benevolent person or set of persons to come to his relief in that way.

GOLDEN EAGLE PARADE.

The Order to Turn Out in Honor of the State Castle's Meeting.

The Knights of the Golden Eagle parade to-day promises to be a decided success. All arrangements have been completed looking toward a general good time among the members. The Grand Castle of West Virginia meets in this city in annual session. Delegates have arrived and are quartered about the different hotels. This session of the grand body will be an eventful gathering, and of great importance to members of the order.

The parade will take place about 10 o'clock a. m., followed by a picnic at Wheeling Park, lasting until 11 o'clock at night. Dancing will be the chief amusement. Several brass bands will be in line, brought by visiting lodges. Chief McNichol has kindly consented to furnish an escort of blue coats to head the procession. They will be in command of Lieutenant Gaus. The line of march is as follows: The procession will form on Main street, the right resting on Twelfth, and proceed up Main to Tenth, east on Tenth to Market, south on Market to Twentieth, east on Twentieth to Chapline, south on Chapline to Thirty-sixth, east on Thirty-sixth to Eoff, down Eoff to Thirty-eighth, countermarch up Eoff to Twenty-seventh, west on Twenty-seventh to Main, up Main to Sixteenth, up Sixteenth to Woods, and countermarch to the motor line, where the members and friends will embark for the park. If Uncle Jerry consents to give the Eagles good, clear weather, a most enjoyable time will be had.

The O. W. L.'s Entertain.

As entertainers the O. W. L. club members are strictly in it. The club last night entertained the active members of the Press club. The evening was spent most enjoyably by all. Mr. Dave White gave one of his inimitable imitations, and Messrs. White, Bias and Wells sang, while the Premier Banjo, Mandolin and Guitar club rendered some of its beautiful music. The O. W. L. rooms are very attractive at all times, but with such a lay out, mental and gastronomic, as was furnished last night, they are especially so. May the club live long and prosper, and may a million people enjoy its outing at the Park to-morrow.

The Black Eagles Reorganize.

Last evening the Black Eagle drum corps members held a meeting and reorganized this excellent musical organization for the campaign, better than ever. Robert Fisher was elected president and Harry Fuhr secretary. The uniform will be gray, with helmets and epaulettes. There will be ten pieces this year, with a drum major who will be a feature.

A Colored Girl Looked up.

Last evening the patrol wagon was called to Tenth street, by Officer West, and Ruby Bell, a colored girl, was brought down for loitering in Josie Boyd's house. There was complaint of the way the girls there loafed outdoors in their "mother Hubbard's," and West went to the house to warn them if must stop. Ruby was inclined to be saucy, and the officer took her down.

A FINE NEW INDUSTRY.

The Arbenz Rattan Company Ready to Market Its Wares.

AN INTELLIGENCER reporter yesterday visited the factory of the Arbenz Rattan Company, on Twentieth street. It is an interesting place to visit, and bids fair to be an important addition to Wheeling's industries. The first completed furniture is now ready for the market, and the designs are handsome and the work very fine.

This is only the third concern of the kind in the United States. There are five stories devoted to the plant, and most of the labor is performed by Wheeling men and boys. The designs are all by Emil Hess, the superintendent, and reflect much credit on his artistic taste. The rattan used comes from Singapore mainly, though some of a cheaper grade is of Chinese production, and a little is finished in Belgium and France.

The operations of bending the wood, sawing and grooving the seat frames, weaving the rattan seats and covers of arms and backs, and staining the chairs are all novel and interesting. Part of the work is done by small boys, and one boy, apparently ten years old, who has been at work six weeks, made over $11 in the past two weeks. Mr. Hess says that by hiring Wheeling people to do the work he is assured that they will stay with him after they learn, while the floating labor is entirely unreliable. Goods have already been sold to go to all sections of the country, and ere long Wheeling will add to her prestige as a manufacturing city by producing the most artistic and substantial rattan furniture made anywhere.

AN IMPORTANT CASE.

Decided in Steubenville in Regard to the Consolidation Railways.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer.

STEUBENVILLE, O., June 20.—Judge Douthitt has just rendered an important decision in the case of the application of the city of Steubenville for the appointment of arbitrators to find the value of their 1,375 shares of stock in the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati & St. Louis Railway Company, which has been consolidated with other lines west of Pittsburgh, forming the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis. The suit was brought under a law passed in 1890 giving dissenting stockholders the power to have arbitrators appointed to ascertain and award them the value of their stock.

The Pan Handle company through its attorneys opposed the appointment of arbitrators on the ground that under the statute they could not be appointed without the consent of both parties. They also claimed that the city was too late in applying for arbitrators. Judge Douthitt held that the appointment of arbitrators is compulsory upon the judge, providing the person desiring not to consolidate shall have given notice to the stockholders. In all 2,900 shares belonging to the city of Steubenville, Cross Creek and Steubenville Township are at issue in the case, worth at par value $145,000. A bill of exceptions is being prepared and the case will be taken to the Circuit Court.

What Lightning Did.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 20.—A special to the Courier Journal from Somerset, Ky., says yesterday during the severe lightning and thunder storm that passed over this section, the general store of W. H. Ryan, at Parmleysville, Wayne county, was struck by lightning. Two kegs of powder exploded, throwing a heavy iron through the roof and wounding all the occupants of the room, fifty in number. Several physicians were at once called in to alleviate the sufferings of the unfortunate victims. Not one single occupant of Ryan's store escaped severe injury; many, it is thought, will die from the effects of the stroke. Ryan is an aged man of considerable prominence, and a farmer representative of Wayne county in the legislature.

TWO SETS OF DELEGATES

Sent From Wayne County to the Democratic State Convention.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer.

HUNTINGTON, W. VA., June 20.—The Wayne county Democrats held a mass convention at Wayne court house Saturday to select delegates to the state convention. It was held in the open air and eight hundred delegates were present. Before the convention assembled it was known there would be a contest between the MacCorkle men on one side and the combined forces of Eastham and Bennett on the other. It first came up on the chairmanship, when the fusion candidate was clearly elected but not allowed to occupy the chair. The leaders of the Eastham-Bennett combination said if he continued in the convention they would have no show, as the temporary chairman was a MacCorkle man, so they withdrew their forces to another part of the village and organized by the election of Judge Ferguson as chairman and W. L. Mansfield of the News, as secretary. By a previous agreement twenty-one delegates were selected to the state convention, one-half to be cast each for Eastham and Bennett.

The original convention proceeded in the meantime and organized by selecting B. J. Pritchard as chairman. Twenty-one delegates were selected, who are all MacCorkle men, and will vote for the Kanawha statesmen in the convention, if admitted. Both conventions instructed for Bowser Davis for auditor. From the present outlook it is likely that the fusion delegates will be the one that will represent Wayne county at Parkersburg, as both the Bennett and Eastham delegates will, of course, vote for their admission.
